It is reiterated that the copy of the response sheet (from 7.03 am) is not on the same appears to be forged and manipulated from the original document... He must have manipulated from the answer key we provide along with the response sheet." Advocate Dhaval Vyas, appearing on behalf of the petitioner, suggested the court to direct for forensic examination of the computer on which the student had downloaded the response sheet at 7.03 am as well as of the screen recording. Vyas downioaded the response sheet at 7.03 am as well as of the screen recording. Vyas also pointed ut that following the second response sheet downioaded at 1.15 pm, the student had emailed NTA on its official ID at 1.38 pm, attaching the two response sheets downioaded, and thus, a doctored screen recording at 3.07 pm would not arise. The NTA also bold HC that it has been informed by TCS that the candidate logged in on April 12, visited 90 questions and did not select any of the options but clicked on 'save and next', hence, his recorded response did not have any of the options (but clicked on save not a question, selected).

The student, with a credible academic track record – as noted by the court – had cleared Class X Board examination with 90 per cent marks and Class XI science stream examination with 97 per cent marks. He also scored 91 per cent in his Class XII Board exams.
